

BUTTERFLYMAN

FUTURE OF CHINESE SOCIETY

002

FUTURE
OF
CHINESE SOCIETY

002

BUTTERFLYMAN

Dedication

To all the people who suffered from freedom of speech, injustice, and poverty

Using foresight beyond one's own sight."

To Think thoroughly about a problem is to see further and do better

~ Historian Cho-Yun Hsu

About the Author

Born in the countryside of Mainland China, the author has personally experienced and felt various realities under the rule of the Chinese Communist Party. Later, having the opportunity to travel extensively and engage in business and residence around the world, he is also one of the many people with similar experiences. Through years of contemplation, the author has shared insights with the public, offering a different perspective for everyone to see the truth

Your Rights

Swearing by the heavens, Swearing by the welfare of future generations, Taking peace as the highest guidance,

*Rejecting war, conflict, and hatred between individuals, Pursuing everlasting peace,
The people have the right to govern themselves,*

Fully respecting and protecting the inherent rights of every individual, as well as other rights conferred by law, ensuring equality for all, upholding fairness and justice.

No individual, organization, or government has the right to threaten or infringe upon the rights of individuals in any way.

A True Law

A true law that ensures equality for all before the law,

A true law that safeguards the sacred and inherent right to equality for every individual,

A true law that protects every person's rightful earnings, property, and political rights,

A true law that defends freedom of speech and the right to vote for every individual,

A law that cannot be altered by any individual or organization,

A law that can only be amended with the consent of the vast majority of free will,

With this, to rebuild the social sentiment of individuals and nations.

A New Vision

This is just the beginning.

For thousands of years, it's been the same old story with a different coat of paint.

Now, in the era of artificial intelligence,

We need a vision that's radically different from before,

Completely new ways of thinking,

Altogether, abandoning the hierarchical system of rulers and subjects, fathers and sons,

Breaking free from the confines of nationality, history, and state,

Moving toward a modern human civilization centered around independent individuals,

Heading toward the ultimate goal of human welfare in complete peace.

Independent POV

The viewpoints here are not meant for criticism but could be likened to visitors from outer space,

Or a choice for future historians to look back upon.

This choice may seem absurd, unconventional, or completely lacking in common sense,

Just as in history, men once wore braids, Today, individuals can choose to be bald.

Innovation is not limited to just technology and art; Political innovation can benefit everyone.

And innovation relies on an increasing number of appreciators, Appreciation stems from independent and free minds, Unimpeded by historical dogma and worldly affairs.

Fighting for the same rights for those you believe don't deserve them is the best choice to safeguard your own life and the future of your descendants. It is equivalent to purchasing an irrevocable policy that lasts for a thousand years.

To the Chinese Elite

Let us first become an Amazon butterfly, fluttering our wings.

By ButterflyMan

Contents

A Day the Chinese People Miss	Pages 14-15
Personal Morality and the Foundations of Society	Pages 16-18
The Motivation Behind Neo-Confucianism	Pages 19-20
Confucian Scholars: Deception and Hypocrisy	Pages 21-23
Patriotism	Pages 24-26
Slave Society	Pages 27-29
True Patriotism	Pages 30-32
Tokyo Chronicles:	Pages 33-35
The Decline of Confucianism and the New Culture Movement ..	Pages 36-39
What Can Revolution Truly Change?	Pages 40-41
The Oppression and Responsibility of Chinese Intellectuals	Pages 42-44
Comparison of Jiang Zemin and Lee Teng-hui.....	Pages 45-47
A Short Stay in Milan.....	Pages 48-50
Coexistence and Peace	Pages 51-52
The Truth About the Cultural Revolution	Pages 53-55
Is Reform Alone Enough?	Pages 56-58
Unopened Civic Consciousness?	Pages 59-60
Why Can China Also Implement Democracy?	Pages 61-62
The Reality Behind “China’s National Conditions”	Pages 63-66
The Party as the “Supreme Emperor”	Pages 67-71
Vision for the Future of Chinese Society	Pages 72-74
Constitution Without Constitutionalism	Pages 75-78
Political Systems and Individual Character	Pages 79-82
The Arrogance of Dictators	Pages 83-86
Freedom of Speech	Pages 87-90
Citizen Questioning	Pages 91-94
Singing Red and Striking Black	Pages 95-97
The Path Forward: Decentralization and Local Autonomy	Pages 98-99
The Urgency of Judicial Independence	Pages 100-102
The Premise of a Law-based Society	Page 103
The Xinhai Revolution	Page 104

Universal Values	Page 105
The End of the Dictatorial System	Page 106
The Truth About Rule of Law	Pages 107-108
The Chinese Model of the Constitution	Pages 109-110
The Character of Citizenship	Pages 111-112
The Whistleblower	Pages 113-114
Fiscal Policy and Budget	Pages 115-117
Land and Real Estate	Pages 118-120
Concept of Universal Basic Free Healthcare	Pages 121-124
Proposal for Comprehensive Free Compulsory Education for
Primary and Secondary Schools	Pages 125-127
Proposal for Supporting the Elderly	Pages 128-130
New Vision for Peace in East Asia	Pages 131-132
South China Sea and East China Sea Code of Conduct	Pages 133-134
North Korea	Page 135
Republic of East Siberia	Pages 136-137
Northern Territories	Pages 138-139
Elites and the Masses	Pages 140-141
The Fundamental Principles of the Constitution and
Their Application in China	Pages 142-144
Independent Judiciary:	Pages 145-146
The Resurgence of the Cultural Revolution	Pages 147-150
Workers' Rights	Pages 151-153
Cultural Waste and Toxic Culture	Pages 154-157
Crying by the Rule of Law	Pages 158-159
The Role of People's Juries in Judicial Independence	Pages 160-162
Human Quality and Democratic Systems	Pages 163-164
The Truth About Rule of Law	Pages 165-166
Central and Local Governments	Pages 167-169
Chinese Elites Are Not Truly Human	Pages 170-171
Does Adversity Truly Strengthen a Nation?	Pages 172-175
The Fall of a Nation	Pages 176-179
Long Live and Ten Thousand Taxes	Pages 180-182
The Great Wall: Why Should We Still Celebrate It?	Pages 183-185
The CCP: In the Name of the People, Exploiting for Profit	Pages 186-190

What Is the Party?	Pages 191-192
The Curse of Mao	Pages 193-194
Born with the Fate of an Ant	Pages 195-196
Crony Capitalism	Pages 197-200
Mirage: Reflections on Illusion and Reality	Pages 201-202
From Rural Solidarity During the War of Resistance to Taiwan's
Democratic Transformation	Pages 203-206
Drawing Lessons from History and Other Countries	Pages 207-210
One Person, One Vote and Local Autonomy	Pages 211-214
Comprehensive Westernization and Peaceful Transformation...	Pages 215-216
A New China Without Borders	Pages 218-220

About The Book

"The Future of Chinese Society" presents a thought-provoking analysis of China's future trajectory and the imperative for the Chinese people to seriously reconsider the necessity of political redesign.

The book examines contrasting viewpoints on unity and independence, emphasizing the need to abandon the myth of unity and instead focus on the thorough protection of individual rights from the perspectives of democracy and the rule of law, ensuring the inviolability of personal freedom.

Through the author's years of observation, deep thinking, and analysis, it prompts readers to rethink the blind pursuit of unity and instead fully prioritize the defense of individual rights and the maintenance of basic freedoms and democratic values.

The book advocates and urges people to reflect on the existing socio-political landscape, transcending the inertia of thought formed over many years.

The author proposes political transition initiatives and specific implementation methods, such as the necessity of a general amnesty, for readers to reconsider the methods and steps of transitioning under seemingly entrenched political systems from a fresh perspective. Starting with local democracy as a point of departure to unlock the political deadlock and move towards a new society of freedom and democracy, without having to do so simultaneously across the entire society.

The author proposes designating August 8th of each year as Freedom Day, preparing everyone to flap the wings of butterflies, symbolizing the peaceful transition of Chinese society to a modern civilized society where individual freedom rights are inviolable!

Butterflyman's work combines historical background, contemporary observations, and forward-looking insights, providing timely suggestions for understanding the shaping of future Chinese society.

BUTTERFLYMAN

FUTURE OF CHINESE SOCIETY

About The Book

"The Future of Chinese Society" presents a thought-provoking analysis of China's future trajectory and the imperative for the Chinese people to seriously reconsider the necessity of political redesign.

The book examines contrasting viewpoints on unity and independence, emphasizing the need to abandon the myth of unity and instead focus on the thorough protection of individual rights from the perspectives of democracy and the rule of law, ensuring the inviolability of personal freedom.

Through the author's years of observation, deep thinking, and analysis, it prompts readers to rethink the blind pursuit of unity and instead fully prioritize the defense of individual rights and the maintenance of basic freedoms and democratic values.

The book advocates and urges people to reflect on the existing socio-political landscape, transcending the inertia of thought formed over many years.

The author proposes political transition initiatives and specific implementation methods, such as the necessity of a general amnesty, for readers to reconsider the methods and steps of transitioning under seemingly entrenched political systems from a fresh perspective. Starting with local democracy as a point of departure to unlock the political deadlock and move towards a new society of freedom and democracy, without having to do so simultaneously across the entire society.

The author proposes designating August 8th of each year as Freedom Day, preparing everyone to flap the wings of butterflies, symbolizing the peaceful transition of Chinese society to a modern civilized society where individual freedom rights are inviolable!

Butterflyman's work combines historical background, contemporary observations, and forward-looking insights, providing timely suggestions for understanding the shaping of future Chinese society.

BUTTERFLYMAN

ISBN

